

My home state, INDIANA, has established a no-call policy for nuisance telemarketer calls. I agree with this law and insist that it be enforced. "I" am the one paying the bill for my telephone and "I" should be the one deciding who can call me. Anything a telemarketer sells is available already at local Indiana businesses and supports my state through appropriate taxes. Tell telemarketers to seek out honest employment elsewhere and stop being a general nuisance on taxpaying citizens of our great country.

Terry Poole